Contemporary design loves natural materials

Following contemporary trends, architects often choose natural materials such as stone, wood or metal to make them the dominant or complementary finish of the facades. We present the new line of plasters and paints: VISAGE, inspired by nature. Both the practical and aesthetic aspects make VISAGE the perfect choice for the demanding client.

VISAGE

Colours are reproduced by the appliance of printing methods, hence they may be slightly different from the original colours. We recommended you apply products with the same production batch number on one surface and work under the same conditions because of natural components that may cause differences in the final appearance. If there is a strategic importance in the colour choice, we recommend checking the actual product samples. Current prices are available at the local distributors.

Colours combinations of VISAGE

The colours combinations of VISAGE products consist of three main categories representing three key groups of natural resources: stone, wood and metallic materials. Within each group we offer a rich choice of colours and textures that allow the bringing to life of most individual concepts.

The colours combinations also present recommended colour compositions for facades of newly built or renovated buildings. The colours used in compositions derive from Ceresit Colours of Nature[®] choice of 211 shades. Each of the compositions consists of main colour as well as complementary matching colour. They are enriched by VISAGE products which highlight the architectural details adding to the originality of the building's finish.
